Annual Report

We work very hard every year at this time to present an annual report to all of you. This report gives financial details as well as other important information about our ministries, programs and activities. It contains statistics but, as I often say, those statistics tell a story. I presented just a part of this story, our story, during the homily time this past weekend at Mass. If you were not at Mass or have not had a chance yet, please review this report, which is available on our website. It contains important information and a significant story of the impact of our mission, your generous support of that mission, and our continual need for your support.

This also gives me one more opportunity to emphasize to all of you that the best way to stay informed with how we carry out our mission here at Holy Family is to access our website. It is the BEST resource for ACCURATE information, parish news and spiritual resources, particularly in this unique time.

3 Bows at Mass

We have some very reverent local customs here at Holy Family that I believe add to the sacredness of our liturgies. Several of them have been placed on hold because of Covid restrictions such as the wave of congregational standing as the Offertory gifts are brought forward and my encouragement that the gift bearers, who represent us all, come all the way up and behind the altar facing the congregation, placing those gifts on the altar on behalf of and from the assembly, us, God's people.

We say, "The Mass never ends..." as we conclude our liturgies. This local custom has been in place for some time indicating our willingness to not only receive the sacredness of God through Christ's real presence – but to live it. We are encouraged to say our names when we receive communion adding an extra personal dimension to a very sacred ritual action. I have noticed a decline in this recently, possibly due to the physical and perhaps psychological barrier of a mask. Please say your name even louder these days as you receive Communion so that the minister hears your name.

I would like to expand one of those local rituals that we do here at Holy Family and that is bowing. The presiders and ministers of all Catholic Masses stop at the foot of the sanctuary in procession as we enter. We then bow to the altar in recognition of its sacredness. The liturgy calls for this because beginning with the procession and the official start of Mass, the focus of Christ's real presence expands to include the altar and the ritual action that will take place upon it. In fact, the focus of our attention should shift to the altar and the bow acknowledges that with reverence.

Presiders and ministers here at Holy Family then turn and bow to the people. Many of you also bow in return, but may I remind you, you are not bowing to the presider, you are bowing to the altar. I invite and encourage ALL of you to bow at that time.

Christ is always present in the form of consecrated hosts in the tabernacle and, thus, that deserves a bow anytime. However, the Eucharistic celebration of ritual and action, and participation in this action by the people, should be acknowledged by a bow or genuflection to the altar.

A bow is as sacred a gesture as a genuflection (the act of kneeling but only descending to have one knee touch the ground, then returning to a standing position). Not everyone is physically able to genuflect, but almost everyone can bow. So in its reverence, a bow is more inclusive and a greater sign of unity.

Presiders bow (or genuflect) two more times, following the consecration of the bread and that of the wine.

I would like to encourage each and every one of you to join the presider in bowing at these two additional sacred moments of every Mass. I first experienced this when I was in the seminary. We all bowed at the consecration moments. It felt so unifying, so sacred.

If we all participate in these bows, there will be three of them, and I think you know how important and symbolic the number three is in spiritual and physical symbolism.

Starting this weekend, let's all bow to the altar, then again following the consecration of the bread to Christ's Body, and then again following the consecration of wine to Christ's Blood.

Preparing for Next Week...

We invite you to read the scripture readings for November 1, Solemnity of All Saints, and then reflect on these questions:

Gene Garcia

Director of Liturgical Arts

The Liturgical Arts

creates a vibrant prayer and worship experience so that all may participate in a fully conscious and active way in the liturgy. This includes different forms of prayer and worship experiences, for all attending Holy Family.

1. The Book of Revelation discusses the “Apocalypse” and the revealing of divine mysteries. Have you read this Book? Does it comfort you, scare you, or both – and why?

2. In the second reading, John says: “We do know that when it is revealed we will be like him, for we shall see him as he is. When you encounter God, what do you expect to see?”

3. Which of the beatitudes do you most identify with, and why?

4. The final beatitude is a challenge for humans. Have you ever been ridiculed or criticized for your belief in Christ? How have you handled it?

5. As we celebrate this All Saints feast day, which saint(s) do you look up to and perhaps pray to for intercession?

SOCIAL JUSTICE QUESTION

Martin Luther King, Jr. advocated for peaceful means to address injustice and discrimination. Peacemakers are sometimes viewed as troublemakers that actually disturb the peace. Who comes to mind as a model of living out the beatitudes?

Investing in the Spiritual Life yields remarkable dividends

Take advantage of the Faith Formation and Religious Education Options we offer

As spiritual beings, we seek meaning and purpose.

As Catholics, we believe we find our life's meaning and purpose. We believe we are born with the ability to respond to God's invitation to become friends. This personal friendship with God is what we call faith. The ways we engage with God is what we call the spiritual life.

INVEST IN
and in your children's spiritual lives*

Like all relationships, our friendship with God is a living reality. It is unique, personal, and ongoing. It changes over time. It waxes and wanes. It can deepen or grow stale. Left unattended or taken for granted, it suffers. Our relationship with God needs nurturing if it is to sustain us. Helping your child invest in their friendship with God is one of the greatest gifts you can give.

Spirituality and Religion

Those who share with us, a similar understanding and relationship with God, support and affirm our spirituality. As we continue to share and reflect on our relationship with God with them, we draw closer to God and each other, forming a community of faith. As a community, we develop ways to express what we have come to know about ourselves, each other and God through these relationships, we call beliefs. We acquire ways to express our thoughts and feelings about our relationship with God and each other, creating a common spiritual language comprised of verbal (spoken and written texts), visual (signs and symbols) and non-verbal (rituals) elements.

As a community, we create ways of being with God and each other that strengthen and nourish these bonds. We call these spiritual practices and customs. In addition to beliefs and practices, we choose ways of behaving that enhance our individual relationship with God (values) and agree to common standards that support and enhance our relationships with God and each other (morals).

The beliefs, values, practices, morals and language we share is what comprises religious faith. Our ancestors passed on to us their religious faith. This was a sacred gift, a blessing. Yet every generation has to make the religious faith they inherit, their own. Each generation has to reflect on the religious faith they receive and make it their own, incorporating it in their lives so it both serves their spiritual life and becomes an authentic expression of their relationship with God, before passing it on to others.

Religious faith serves the Spiritual life, giving it form and expression

Religious beliefs and practices do not lead to faith and the development of the Spiritual Life. Religious belief and practice provide tools to respond to God's invitation to friendship and ways to construct our spiritual lives. Inherited faith is the starting point in coming to know God's love intimately and personally.

Invest in your children's spiritual lives by sharing your faith with them. Let Family & Teen Faith help you do this. If you have yet to register your children or teens in Faith Classes (or all of your children/teens) please reconsider. To register please go to <https://holyfamilyparish.org/family-and-teen-faith-registration>.

Thank you for helping out at the recent Greater Chicago Food Depository Produce Mobile on Thursday, September 10 in the remote parking lot. 208 households were served which included 713 individuals. That is an increase of more than 50% of our usual households. It took many volunteers to unload, pack and distribute and most importantly, get them safely lined up in the parking lot to receive the food in an orderly manner. Many of you joined the efforts and it was much appreciated and would not have gone so smoothly your help. God Bless.
