Fr. Terry Keehan

Divine/Human Work, an Enterprise to Bring God Joy by Making More of Your Talent

Perhaps you have heard me talk about a book that I am writing. I don't pretend to be nearly as prolific as either one of my predecessors in the book publishing adventure, but I have a desire to put some of my thoughts together in book form for the first time.

The basic topic and focus of my writing is work. The prevalence of the word and the concept of work in our culture continue to amaze me. Just stop and think for a minute of the variety of ways that you use the word – feel about – and, depend on – Work.

However, my writing is based on a conviction that I have had for quite some time and, simply put, is OUR WORK CONTINUES GOD'S WORK. My fascination with why people do the work they do shapes my life and my ministry as a priest in a significant way. I believe that we can do so much of God's work in our world, every day, in many varied ways, with so many different attitudes, motivations, pressures and needs.

A secondary conviction that I have is that we in church circles use words such as Call, Vocation, Discernment and Formation in a manner that lacks connection in most people's lives. In other words, most people don't feel or think that they are called by God, have a vocation for, discern their direction and are formed in very holy and healthy ways by so many experiences in their lives and, thus, in their work. So the highly institutionalized nature of our church up until 1965 gave the message that only some are called, have a vocation, discern that vocation and are formed largely by church experiences.

I believe that NOTHING could be farther from the truth, so my book attempts to de-religious-ize (my made up word, similar to de-institutionalize) those concepts and help ALL people see that they are continuing God's work with theirs in ways that they don't realize or have underestimated.

I am mentioning this in the context of this weekend's Gospel parable of the talents (Matthew 25:14-30). That parable generates the core image used throughout the book, helping to view our work differently. Jesus tells the parable to his disciples, challenging them as he did the religious leaders in previous parables told in the past six weekends' passages, challenging both groups to envision the Kingdom of God.

You will notice that the master (God) gives his servants (Us) varied levels of talent, money or blessings. Two servants double what was given them and this results in two things: increasing God's joy, and greater responsibility for them. In short they make more of what was given them and that is the path that I take in the book as motivation for all of us to make more of what the same generous God has given us.

The third servant is crippled by fear and buries what he was given. Fear can paralyze us sometimes and affects our work negatively resulting in making less or nothing at all.

So, what does it mean to 'make more' of your talent? I hope my book will give just some background and some detail. I structure the chapters by giving some background to work, begin to define it, consider how it has formed us, how we get greater clarity regarding our talent, urge us to work like, with and for God, as well as to see that we are somehow all engaged by meaningful work. It considers how spiritual, church, scriptural and popular cultural concepts aid us in learning about work and how other concepts such as passion, purpose and service tie into our work. It concludes by investigating work in relationships and athletics and finally transitions in work, including what used to be called retirement, but now means, more often than not, the next step, phase or chapter. The chapters will fall under three major sections: Acknowledging, Identifying and Sharing our talent to make more of them and, thus, bring God some joy. Each chapter contains a direct connection between work & the Eucharist.

Christmas Survey

Please know that our Christmas Mass schedule will be available soon and PLEASE, PLEASE see that it is shaped by your feedback from the recent survey that we sent out. MOST IMPORTANTLY, please note that you must REGISTER for Christmas Eve and Christmas Day Masses so that we can safely serve and pray with all who wish to attend.

As always, we need volunteer ushers and greeters to be as welcoming as possible.

Preparing for Next Week...

We invite you to read the scripture readings for November 22, The Solemnity of Our Lord Jesus Christ, King of the Universe, and then reflect on these questions:

The Liturgical Arts Community...

creates a vibrant prayer and worship experience so that all may participate in a fully conscious and active way in the liturgy. This includes different forms of prayer and worship experiences, for all attending Holy Family.

1. In Ezekiel we hear: "I will rescue them from every place where they were scattered when it was cloudy and dark." Who in your life has the Lord rescued?
2. The Lord also says in Ezekiel, "the sleek and the strong I will destroy." Who are the sleek and strong today?
3. Paul writes about the end time. Have the events of 2020 made you think that we are closer to the end time than once thought?
4. In our Gospel, Jesus exhorts us to "be there" for others. How do we keep this going after COVID?
5. When did you do something for another, and realized that you received much more than you gave?

SOCIAL JUSTICE QUESTION

Many people struggle with poverty and injustice. How have you fine-tuned your awareness to see and act for those who are hungry, ill, or imprisoned when others simply do not see them at all?

Congratulations to our newly baptized and welcome into the Body of Christ and Holy Family!

We are all saints in the making!

This is a big weekend – Halloween (Oct 31), All Saints Day (Nov 1) and All Souls Day (Nov 2). All three of these celebrations focus on connections.

The spiritual genius of Christianity is the fundamental belief that through our relationship with Christ we are one.

“There is neither Jew nor Gentile, neither slave nor free, nor is there male and female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus”. (Galatians 3:28).

The salvation of Christ is for all. In a world fractured by division and the violence employed to maintain these divisions, the Christian teachings of universal salvation and the equality of all believers was new in biblical times and astonished many (and still does). Christians made, and still make their commitment to communion, tangible in the celebration of the Eucharist and in the Christians care for all those in need.

Christ's resurrection and the promise of new life, expands our understanding of the bond we share to include the living and those who have died. As the Christian community grew and developed, our understanding of Baptism evolved as well. Rather than being a single choice made at a particular time, we came to see Baptism as an on-going reality. As our relationship with Christ deepens, we continue to become more like Him. The Holy Spirit, received in Baptism, inspires and guides or sanctifies us, to be our best selves – reflections of God's glory and goodness in the world, in short a saint.

Saints are not perfect. They struggle with the same challenges we all struggle in becoming our best selves. What sets the saints apart is their commitment to developing their relationship with Christ. Their effort, draws them closer to Christ and to their neighbors. They cultivate within themselves what the Church refers to as the unum necessarium – the ability to know in any given moment, in any given situation what is needed – what is necessary.

CONNECTING WITH FAMILY LIFE

The most resilient relationships most of us share between birth and death are among those we call family. It is our families who play the earliest and most enduring influence in shaping who we are and who we are becoming. What we are, according to God, is good, for we are made in the image of God, the Most Holy. What we are called to be are saints, men and women who reflect the glory and goodness of our creator.

Becoming our best selves takes effort and encouragement. As Catholics, we believe that encouragement comes through many – our families, friends, co-workers, neighbors and yes all those who accompany us as we journey to toward the fullness of life in Christ, including the citizens of heaven - the angels and saints. On this All Saint's Day, let us renew our personal commitment to support and encourage each other.

REMEMBER

Knowing what is needed does not guarantee doing what is needed.

This is why the Church lifts up or canonizes Christians of all ages, from diverse times and cultures, to be examples for us.

Call to Family, Community, and Participation

The person is not only sacred but also social. How we organize our society-- in economics and politics, in law and policy -- directly affects human dignity and the capacity of individuals to grow in community. Marriage and the family are the central social institutions that must be supported and strengthened, not undermined. We believe people have a right and a duty to participate in society seeking together the common good and well-being of all, especially the poor and vulnerable.

The primary norm for determining the scope and limits of governmental intervention is the "principle of subsidiarity" cited above. This principle states that, in order to protect basic justice, government should undertake only those initiatives which exceed the capacities of individuals or private groups acting independently. Government should not replace or destroy smaller communities and individual initiative. Rather it should help them contribute more effectively to social well-being and supplement their activity when the demands of justice exceed their capacities. This does not mean, however, that the government that governs least governs best. Rather it defines good government intervention as that which truly "helps" other social groups contribute to the common good by directing, urging, restraining, and regulating economic activity as "the occasion requires and necessity demands". Economic Justice for All, #124

Holiday Sharing Tags

Christmas is not that far away. Holy Family is committed to serving individuals in need, especially this year, through the Holiday Sharing Tag program as they struggle more than ever due to the pandemic. Instead of the tags hanging in the narthex, these "tags" will be listed on Sign Up Genius on our website - holymfamilyparish.org - under Volunteer Opportunities.

As we have done in the past, we will be supporting children and adults from Hopeful Beginnings, Little City, St. Joseph's Home for the Elderly and WINGS. Due to the COVID-19 virus, we are asking for gift certificates only in order to limit the need of collecting, handling and delivering gifts. It will also be easy to mail your gift card in or drop it off securely at the parish. Gifts cards are due back to Holy Family by Sunday, November 22. More details are on Sign Up Genius. Your gift card will surely be a bright light of hope this Christmas. Contact Barb at bstec58622@gmail.com with questions.

GIVING THANKS TO GOD

"No duty is more urgent than that of returning thanks." - St. Ambrose

Thankfulness is key to changing the culture. When people are thankful and they let others know, they are recognizing the work others do to serve them. As Catholics, we strive to imitate Jesus, who is the Servant and came to serve us during this time on earth. When we are not thankful, we are not recognizing Christ and the value of the other person. We especially forget to be thankful to the ones closest to us. Find a way to thank someone close to you, your spouse, parents, siblings, etc.
