Fr. Terry Keehan

I believe our world is in need of restoration – physically, spiritually, emotionally, athletically, educationally and politically, just to name a few experiences that end in the letters a-l-l-y. Particularly with the way this pandemic has come upon us, it is human instinct to seek restoration through healing. Many of you have heard me make the distinction between healing and cure. Cure has to do more with the physical part of our one world; healing has to do more with the spiritual dimension of our one world—again, there is only one world that is both physical and profoundly spiritual. So our desire for physical healing is heightened now with the arrival of a vaccine for the novel coronavirus that has been discovered, created, processed and is now beginning to be distributed. What I find both fascinating and hopeful is that we see, once again, the physical and the spiritual coming together to provide both a cure and healing.

We have and will continue to hear more about a cure in the months ahead.

The prophet Malachi offers some insight into healing that I would like to highlight now, for us in The United States of America, our Church, our families and our Holy Family Catholic Community.

Micah was a minor prophet working at the same time as Isaiah. Their messages were similar, they spoke of the need for change, among all people and among the leadership of the chosen people. The two experiences that Micah focuses on are Restoration and Reuniting. If you read the 5th Chapter of Micah you will get details. He tells us that the eternal King will come from a place that others consider insignificant – Bethlehem. But he points out that King David is from Bethlehem, and Micah and Isaiah both agree that the restoration and reuniting of the covenant will come from Bethlehem. In other words, greatness has come from a relatively insignificant place – and it will again.

All of this background is helpful to embrace the magic of the Epiphany story once again this year.

It has to do with the advice that the evil and insecure king Herod seeks when he is startled by the arrival of three kings seeking the new king. The advice comes from wisdom seeking wisdom in the form of advisors who root the arrival of the new king in the prophecy of Micah. The wisdom is quoted in the story of the Epiphany that we hear this weekend from the Gospel of Matthew (Chapter 2:1-12).

“And you, Bethlehem, land of Judah, are by no means least among the rulers of Judah
Since from you shall come a ruler, to shepherd my people Israel.”

Micah and Isaiah both tell us that hope and fulfillment and, thus, true healing are coming. They both worked in the prophetic realm when the chosen people had wandered from their roots and their one kingdom was divided. Isaiah is more popular and his imagery and words are echoed by John the Baptist. Micah espouses RESTORATION and REUNITING.

The Epiphany story further helps us to embrace healing, cure, restoration and reuniting in our world now. The kings, who are royal, teach us about humility as they acknowledge the arrival of a new and special king. They seek brightness and guidance. They are not afraid to be led by light. They hold their heads up and focus on a star from above. They trust that the journey will lead them to something new and unique. The gifts that they hold during their travels are as significant as the journey itself.

The physical elements of a vaccine for this virus are from nature, like those gifts. The Kings bring treasures that represent natural resources of their lands. The three kings and the three gifts come together and are offered. They do not journey alone, their journey unites them and then, with further instruction from Micah, re-unites them in their purpose for the final leg of their journey that leads them to their destination.

Restoration for us can come in a similar way - realizing we do not journey in life, or in this pandemic, alone, recalling once again the seemingly insignificant places where healing has come in our lives, and trusting it can come from there again.

That special star long ago led these kings to their savior; so it can for us. Perhaps most importantly their arrival inspired them to give their gifts away. May it inspire us to restore by giving away our gifts of talent, time, energy, attention... The giving away can restore, heal, reunite and cure.

Preparing for Next Week...

We invite you to read the scripture readings for January 10, The Baptism of the Lord, and then reflect on these questions:

conscious and active includes different forms of prayer and

worship experiences, for all attending Holy

1. Isaiah says: "I, the Lord, have called you for the victory of justice." Why is the victory of justice elusive for so many?
2. We hear in Acts that "God shows no partiality." How do we defend this statement in view of the inequity in the world?
3. In Acts, an emboldened Peter enters the house of Cornelius, a Roman centurion, to preach the Good News of Jesus. Whose house should you enter?
4. Baptism can occur at any age. Do you have a favorite baptismal story about yourself or someone you know?

SOCIAL JUSTICE QUESTION

Jesus was baptized by John the Baptist in fulfillment of God's plan to bring a relationship between God and humanity. How do you view your baptism and where it is leading you in your relationship with God, your family, your community?

THE ART OF SPIRITUAL READING OF THE PSALMS

4 Thursdays, January 7, 14, 21, 28, 2021

ZOOM sessions, 9:45am to 10:45am

The Psalms are a never-ending treasure trove of wisdom and grace, so we are taking a "deep dive" into these Scriptural readings this season. In the fall we completed the outstanding series about "The Psalms" offered by Anne Madsen. On four Thursday mornings in January, we will continue with our study of the Psalms by hosting Dr. Elizabeth Nagel (back by popular demand!) as she teaches us the art of spiritual reading of the Psalms. This study will not be a duplicate of the fall series, but rather a look at other Psalms and their spiritual depth.

There is no fee for this program.

Registration is required by contacting

Marsha Adamczyk, madamczyk@holyfamilyparish.org

Prayer Requests

As the new year begins, we want to assure you that we are here for you if someone you love is ill. We are happy to add your loved one to the prayer list and have their name listed as part of our live-streamed Mass. Please note that these requests must be made by a family member due to privacy laws. Procedures for anointing people have been very fluid during COVID-19. Each hospital should have a priest on call if you are in need for a non-COVID-19 related anointing. Please call Jeannie during work hours (9:00 am – 4:00 pm) at 949-632-2059 to help you with the most recent procedures, or call Mary at 847-767-2927 for assistance if you are calling after office hours.

Welcoming A New Year

A new year stands on my doorstep ready to enter my life's journey.

Something in me welcomes this visitor: the hope of bountiful blessings, the joy of a new beginning, the freshness of unclaimed surprises

Something in me rebuffs this visitor; the swiftness of the coming, the boldness of the entrance, the challenge of a year's good-bye.

Something in me fears this visitor: the unnamed events of future days, the wisdom needed to walk love well, the demands of giving away and growing.

A new year stands on my doorstep.

With fragile caution I move to open the door for its entrance.

My heart leaps with surprise, joy jumps in my eyes, for there beside this brand-new year stands my God with outstretched hand. He smiles and gently asks of me: Can we walk this year together?

And I, so overwhelmed with goodness,
Can barely whisper my reply:

Welcome in!

Catholic Social Teaching – United States Catholic Conference of Bishops

The Church's social teaching is a rich treasure of wisdom about building a just society and living lives of holiness amidst the challenges of modern society.

Rights and Responsibilities

The Catholic tradition teaches that human dignity can be protected and a healthy community can be achieved only if human rights are protected and responsibilities are met. Therefore, every person has a fundamental right to life and a right to those things required for human decency. Corresponding to these rights are duties and responsibilities--to one another, to our families, and to the larger society.

The inviolability of the person which is a reflection of the absolute inviolability of God, finds its primary and fundamental expression in the inviolability of human life. Above all, the common outcry, which is justly made on behalf of human rights--for example, the right to health, to home, to work, to family, to culture-- is false and illusory if the right to life, the most basic and fundamental right and the condition for all other personal rights, is not defended with maximum determination. On the Vocation and Mission of the Lay Faithful (Christifideles Laici. . .), #38
